HSBC Expat recognised at Asia-Pacific EMMA awards for innovation

HSBC Expat, which is headquartered in Jersey and has a presence in the Isle of Man, has been recognised for its commitment to innovation in expatriate banking by winning the EMMA award for 'Banking, Tax & Financial Services Innovation of the Year'.

The EMMA's (Expatriate Management & Mobility Awards) were presented at the Forum for Expatriate Management for the Asia-Pacific region, held at Hotel Fort Canning in Singapore yesterday.

The win reflects a number of innovations HSBC Expat has brought to the market, which includes making online account opening more straightforward, rolling out online document certification technology and providing a live chat facility.

John Goddard, Head of HSBC Expat, said:

"The business is always evolving and developing to suit expatriates' needs across the globe and so I'm very pleased we've received this recognition. We provide our customers with a first-class, immediate and personalised service and have really placed a focus on our digital capabilities and banking experience to make sure relocating to a different country is as easy and comfortable as possible."

The Forum for Expatriate Management is a community for the global mobility and HR industry and the EMMA's are considered the premier awards for the sector.
