Everything you need to know about The Great Resignation

The Great Resignation is a phenomenon that refers to record high numbers of people leaving their jobs during the COVID-19 pandemic. Companies are now trying to understand the ripple effects of the pandemic and re-evaluate how to keep top talent. Employees are rethinking not just how they work but why they work.

Many organisations are now faced with the challenge of restructuring their workforce from an efficiency and cost-management perspective, while competing for increasingly scarce talent to enable growth and performance.

During this webinar, experts from Human Capital Consulting company Lee Hecht Harrison (LHH- part of the Adecco Group) will discuss and provide insight on the following topics:

- Career transition best practice - dos and don'ts when providing outplacement to employees.
- The underlying causes of the Great Resignation, and what you can do to retain talent.

- The types of transition support available to employees.
- Reskilling and upskilling your workforce for future business needs.
- The importance of coaching as a key performance enabler.
- Bespoke leadership transition programs - to ensure business continuity.
