How to Access High Performing UK Residential Property

Bricks and mortar have historically been a solid investment in the UK, combining low risk and strong returns. In a market driven by a shortage of supply and a growing population; is now a good time to plan and build a buy-to-let portfolio?

During this webinar, Anna Renton, Managing Director of Investment at Sandstone, will provide insights into the UK's current buy-to-let market, highlight trends and hotspots as the country emerges from the global pandemic, and explain how to enter into this competitive marketplace. Anna will also discuss some issues through an investor case study, provide practical tips, and share her experience with you on how to access and structure low risk, high performing UK property portfolios.

This webinar is aimed at those who may be considering investment in UK property and existing property portfolio owners.

About the speaker

Anna Renton is Managing Director, Investment at Sandstone. During her 18 years with the company she has advanced her way through the business, from letting, sourcing investment properties for clients, managing several teams across the UK and ultimately heading up Investment and Sales. She has a wealth of knowledge and experience regarding UK investment property and has personally helped many hundreds of clients invest.

Born and raised in rural East Lothian, Anna has a young family and enjoys travelling and spends much of her time in Switzerland as well as horse riding and mountain biking.
